HISTORY & MISSION

ISDD was founded in 2004 to promote health equity among children living in social and economic disadvantage with or at risk for disability. This mission is accomplished through research, education, and community service and support programs.

PROGRAMS

Research & Education

Advancing the knowledge of the relationship between disadvantage and disability is accomplished through programs like BREAK THE CYCLE, a collaborative interdisciplinary research and training program to cultivate leadership in children's environmental health disparities. The target populations are communities where the environmental hazards are related to circumstances of social and economic disadvantage. Collaborative partners include Southeast Pediatric Environmental Health Specialty Unit at Emory University, Georgia Council on Developmental Disabilities, and Sustainability Initiatives at Emory University.

Community Service & Support:

HEALTHCARE WITHOUT WALLS: a medical home for homeless children is a comprehensive community-based, medical home model which addresses the health care needs of children who have been homeless. ISDD works in collaboration with Mary Hall Freedom House, the Morehouse School of Medicine and Children's Healthcare of Atlanta to provide a medical home for the children and health literacy training for their mothers.

Over 180 mothers with their children have been served to date by this HWW. This model is being expanded to other populations in the Metro Atlanta area and is a template for improving the health and well-being of children all over the world who suffer from a state of homelessness.

Project GRANDD is a community-based support program for grandparents in the Metro Atlanta area who are raising grandchildren who have disabilities, chronic illness, and behavior or learning difficulties. Project GRANDD provides group educational meetings, monthly support groups, home visits, individual case management and practical help where needed.

Project GRANDD partners with the Nell Hodgson Woodruff School of Nursing to offer students the opportunity to perform home health visits with the families as part of their training and provide valuable health monitoring to the grandparents and their grandchildren. In addition, ISDD has helped these families build a significant and powerful community, which further supports opportunities for growth and empowerment. To date, over 100 grandparents and 200 grandchildren have been served by Project GRANDD.
